SWEETS TO THE SWEET.

Visitor—I've brought you a few chocolates. But I suppose you always have quantities of sweets?
Ethel—No, I don't. I eat 'em all.—St. Louis Republic.

Pertinent Query.

He that rises has far to fall.
But if men went dreading the drop,
Say, where is there one among us all
That ever would reach the top?
—N. Y. Herald.

Adding Insult to Injury.

The day had been appointed for the ceremony which was to make one of two, but for some reason best known to the fickle maid she had relinquished the glittering solitaire.

"Oh, well," said the young man in the case, "I don't suppose I could be happy with a woman who dyes her hair, anyway."

"Sir, 'tis false!" she exclaimed indignantly.
"Is it?" he rejoined. "I thought it was only dyed."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Reversing the Rule.

"So!" exclaimed the rejected lover. "All you have wanted of me has been to photograph me in every conceivable attitude, because I am a 'good subject'!"

"I confess it, Mr. Spoonamore," said the fair camera fiend. That is all."

"Before being shaken I have been well taken, anyhow!" he howled, grasping his hat and rushing forth into the chilly darkness of the night.—Chicago Tribune.

Not Appreciated.

"My heart is lost," the milkmaid sang. And the farmer said: "B'gosh, I reckon 'twouldn't make folks weep. If you'd also lose your voice."
—Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE POINT OF VIEW.

Miss Ghest—Do you think that mineral water is good for the health, Jonas?
Jonas—Oh, yes, 'm. When some gentlemen fust comes 'heah, nuffin' don't satisfy 'em, an' at de end ob a week dey's foreber tellin' me to keep de change.—Century Magazine.

In the Fall.

In the fall the shabby lawyer tries to win a suit of clothes; in the fall a deeper crimson roosts upon the toper's nose; in the fall the politician gets his work in on the stump; in the fall the festive coalman upward makes the prices jump; in the fall the summer maiden at the seashore ends her stay; in the fall the bunks artist selth gold bricks to the jay.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Color.

"You are common clay, after all!" he exclaimed, vexed with himself, with the world, but above all with her. The beautiful wretch laughed lightly. "I only wish I were," she said. "Then I could have my colors fired in, instead of having to have a high-priced maid to put them on fresh every day."—Puck.

A Different Metal.

"I wonder what led him to propose to her."
"It wasn't lead, but gold."—Philadelphia Press.

Just Before Her Marriage.

What she wrote:
"Dear Fred—As you are aware, I shall marry Mr. Gotrix this coming week. Will you kindly burn all the little notes I have sent you? I shall do so with yours. Good-by.—Ethel."

What he wrote:
"Dear Miss Ethel—Your request shall be complied with. And, by the way, your affianced also holds a few notes of mine that I wish you would prevail upon him to let you burn with the rest.—Ever your friend, Fred.—Tit-Bits.

How to Get Along.

Barlow—The Wigginses seem to get along together wonderfully. I never supposed they would, their tastes being so dissimilar.

Catlan—That's just the reason why they do get along so well. He is always talking on literary subjects and she talks of nothing but her housework. As neither knows anything about what the other is speaking of they never have any disputes.—Boston Transcript.

Quality and Quantity.

I isn't a-pin' an' sigh'n'.
But dis worl' would seem better, I vow,
If a reed bird was big as an astrich.
An' a 'possum was big as a cow.
—Washington Star.

THROWN AWAY.

"Every dog, sir, has his day."
"What's the good of that if he doesn't know when he is having it?"—Ally Sloper.

A Risky Journey.

Indian Chief (to prisoner)—You say you are a foreign tourist?

Prisoner—Yes.

"And you have a title?"

"Yes."

"And you are unmarried?"

"Yes."

"Well, I will let you go; but you will have to run the gauntlet of American helresses all the way from Denver to New York."—N. Y. Weekly.

An Experiment.

"Pa, didn't you say a cat has nine lives?"

"I may have remarked that that is a popular belief."

"Then our cat must have lost eight of them before we got her, 'cause I let her down into the cistern just once for half an hour, and she looks awful dead now."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Where the Mask Comes In.

Patience—He married a woman with money, I believe?

Patrice—Yes, she's got all kinds of money.

"Homely, I suppose?"

"Frightfully! But he doesn't mind it. You see, they spend most of the time in their automobile, and she wears a mask."—Yonkers Statesman.

What a Baby Can Do.

Friend—I don't understand why you and your husband should have separated so soon.

Mrs. Aftermath—It was all owing to the baby's temper.

"Mercy on us! How could that be?"

"We couldn't agree as to which one of us the baby took after."—N. Y. Weekly.

Sweet Honey.

Ernestine—Yes, indeed, Jack brought me a box of the most delicious candies I ever tasted.

Eva—You don't say! Did you smack your lips?

Ernestine—Oh, he attended to that.

Retort Civil.

Giffie—Hi, old man! My, but you are a sight! How'd you get all the skin rubbed off the end of your nose?

Spinks (with hauteur)—Not by poking it into other people's business, I can tell you that!—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The Sardonix in Art.

The finest example of sardonix cameo is in King Edward's collection at Windsor castle. The stone measures 7.5 by 5.875 inches and is cut upon a rich oriental sardonix of four strata. It is a contemporary portrait of Emperor Claudius. The ground is in the dark-brown stratum, the laurel wreath and front of the cuirass in the honey-brown and the head and hair in the white. The whole is surrounded by a raised border enriched with molding, cut in the thickness of the stone.—Baltimore Sun.

Mozart's Home.

In the middle of Salzburg stands the small house in which Mozart was born. It contains two old pianos and many relics belonging to the composer, whose skull is preserved in a glass case placed in the center of the room in which he first saw the light. The skull is all that remains of Mozart, whose body could not be identified in the mass of remains that filled the common paupers' grave wherein he had been buried at Vienna.

Attractive Lamps.

An agreeable change from the heavy lamps, with bowls of metal or foreign pottery, is one with a shallow bowl supported on a delicate tripod of copper more than a foot high, in which a jeweled effect is produced by the turquoise matrix sparingly used. Lamps of Nancy glass are even newer and more delicate than those of Tiffany, but their exquisite beauty comes at a very high figure.—Detroit Free Press.

Bird Too Fresh.

A magpie named "Bob Fitzsimmons," which assaulted every newcomer in the "happy family" of which he was a member in a cage at the zoological gardens, London, was found almost torn to pieces the other morning. Evidently he had been the victim of a general attack, but the exact circumstances will never be known, as "even the parrots refuse to say a word."

Mrs. De Long Finds that the Indescribable Pains of Rheumatism Can be Cured Through the Blood.

Mrs. E. M. De Long, of No. 160 West Broadway, Council Bluffs, Iowa, found herself suddenly attacked by rheumatism in the winter of 1896. She gave the doctor a chance to help her, which he failed to improve, and then she did some thinking and experimenting of her own. She was so successful that she deems it her duty to tell the story of her escape from suffering:

"My brother-in-law," she says, "was enthusiastic on the subject of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a purifier of the blood, and when I was suffering extreme pains in the joints of my ankles, knees, hips, wrists and elbows, and the doctor was giving me no relief, I began to reflect that rheumatism is a disease of the blood and that, if Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are so good for the blood, they must be good for rheumatism and worth a trial."

"I was in bed half the time, suffering with pain that cannot be described to one who has never had the disease. It would concentrate sometimes in one set of joints. When it was in my feet I could not walk, when it was in my elbows and wrists I could not even draw the coverlets over my body. I had suffered in this way for weeks before I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Two weeks after I began with them I experienced relief and after I had taken six boxes I was entirely well. To make sure I continued to use them about two weeks longer and then stopped altogether. For several years I have had no reason to use them for myself, but I have recommended them to others as an excellent remedy."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills furnish the blood with all the elements that are needed to build up healthy tissue, strong muscles and nerves, capable of bearing the strain that nature puts upon them. They really make new blood and cure all diseases arising from disorders of the blood or nerves, such as sciatica, neuralgia, partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, St. Vitus' dance, nervous prostration, anemia and all forms of weakness in either male or female. They are sold by all druggists.
